National Honor Society - - Forensic Club

Every student has a goal in mind. To many F.H.S. students their goal is to belong to the National Honor Society. To be elected into this society is the highest of honors. A student must be a junior or senior and be in the upper third of his class. A committee of teachers is appointed by the principal to rule on new members. The basic requirements are the following: character . . . outstanding leadership . . . scholarship . . . service.

Parliamentary procedure and law are the basis of the Forensic Club. Its membership is limited to fifty students possessing an A or B average and also being good school citizens. The Forensic scholarship is awarded by this organization.

Mr. Wood is sponsor of the society, while Mrs. Redmon is sponsor of the club.

High Life Staff

"Red all about it!" Out of endless confusion, and chaos, bi-weekly the hard working High Life staff produces a fine high school paper. If you stray by and hear, "We've got a scoop," don't be fooled. You are not approaching a meeting of grave diggers, but merely the High Life room.

The paper was published by the seniors the first semester, and in the second semester the juniors became the searchers for the news. In room 109 social doings, sports, interesting editorials, questionnaires, and club news are processed for print.

High Life motto: "If it happened, it's here!"

Cauldron Staff

ROW I—Helen Nance, Donna Barnett, Annette Sebree, Judy Clingan, Nancy Camp, Joe Dupler, David Byers, Bill Bratton, Gwen Dykhuizen.

Throughout the year Mr. Rohrabough's office was the headquarters for Operation Annual. After selecting the theme, several events followed quickly in succession — planning layouts and post-ups, cropping photos, supervising schedules, and finally completing the captions, headlines, identifications, and features.

The staff worked diligently to prepare the yearbook for publication. Joe Dupler, the editor-in-chief, Nancy Camp, assistant editor, and a highly industrious and reliable staff were responsible for struggling through "blood, sweat, and tears" to bring you the 1951 Cauldron—one which they hope is outstanding in every way.

"Her symbol's the glow of the radiant sun" . . . yes, this is truly the Sunshine girl of Frankfort. Their tasks were many this year . . . rummage sale . . . charity baskets . . . selling at the games . . . new furniture for the girls' lounge . . . mother's tea . . . only a few of the activities the Sunshiners accomplished with a smile. The Sadie Hawkins' dance was again an annual highlight. The society is the largest club in the school. Upon becoming a freshman any girl is eligible to become a member. The Sunshine girl . . . "each test finds her tried and true."

Sunshine Society

Hi-Y Club

The purpose of this familiar boys' club is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character. To be eligible for membership a boy must be a member of the junior or senior class. During the first few weeks of the new school term in September, new members are elected into the organization by the club members not taken by graduation. The boys, before becoming members, participate in an evening of informal initiation which is climaxed by a very impressive formal program. To become a member of this organization, which is under the leadership of Mr. Robert Bahney, is the desire of most high school lads.

Anyone, when asked to name the more active organizations of the high school, is sure to place the Hi-Y Club near the top.

The club was responsible for many activities this year, some of which are as follows: the concession stand at Stott Field . . . the Thanksgiving program . . . their formal dance—Joe's Bavarian Cafe . . . decorating for the Sesquicentennial pageant . . . joining the Sunshine Society in collecting goods for the needy . . . the Easter program . . . the freshman athletic banquet . . . and the selection of a Hi-Y Sweetheart.

The Math Club was also the first club to contribute to the fund for a new P. A. system.

During the year each member of the club is held responsible for a report on some phase of mathematics.

Under the able supervision of Miss Sanders, it is no wonder that the Math Club is one of the school's best-organized clubs.

D. O. Club

The Diversified Occupations Training Program may be described briefly as a plan for training senior high school students of employable age in a variety of occupations by utilizing the community's business and industrial establishments as training agencies. Two high school credits may be earned each semester, one for work experience and one for related class work. A minimum of fifteen hours of work on the occupational job are required each week; this may be distributed in any way desired by the employer and coordinator. While on the job, students are bona fide employees and must assume the responsibilities and duties of regular workers.

One of the values of this type of training program to the student is the evaluating of his interests, aptitude, and abilities. It provides a gradual transition from school to employment, develops skills in a chosen occupational field, and at the same time completes high school graduation requirements.

This year, the club elected the following officers: president, Robert Sheets; vice-president, Harold Percy; secretary, Robert Walsh; treasurer, Dwayne Roush; and sergeant-at-arms, Jack Bengé.

ROW I: Jim Robison, Bob Walsh, Calvin Minglin, Don Edmonds, Don Elliott, Eric Swearingen, Carl McIntosh.

Orchestra

Frankfort High School's orchestra continues to grow and form an integral part of the school academic program and public relations.

The personnel this year consisted of twenty-nine strings, nine woodwinds, six brass, and two percussionists. The String Choir contained two quintets, three trios, and a quartet which worked together "after hours" to prepare for programs to be given in and about the city.

The Orchestra this year gave two public concerts; a convocation concert; and a Christmas program and played for the Senior Class Play; and for Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises. The forty-six members met two days each week in the new orchestra room in Howard Hall. The String section met five days each week.

It is the aim of the organization not only to encourage good musicianship and instrumental technique, but also to promote a better understanding and appreciation of good music through public concerts and ensemble appearances before service organizations in this community.

Band

This year was a busy one for the seventy-five piece band. Before the members had even become accustomed to school again, they were tramping up and down Stott Field practicing formations for the football games. The band played at all the home games, and marched in precise formations.

The basketball season followed immediately on the heels of the grid season. The band's main purpose at the games was to entertain and we all know that this was accomplished.

The annual Mid-Winter and Spring concerts under the direction of Aden K. Long were greatly appreciated. The seniors featured in them also made a good showing.

The District and State Solo and Ensemble contests proved to be an important event this year. Eighty-eight members of the chorus, orchestra, and band attended the district contest, and forty-eight attended the State at Terre Haute.

Varsity Football

Through football, character, minds, and bodies are built. Growth begins in the embryonic stage of freshman football, where the player learns how to "take it," and studies the fundamentals. In reserve football all that has been assimilated thus far is put to use. The competition becomes stiffer now; growth continues, as the players specialize in their best positions. Varsity football, the last step, uses only those who have survived the screening out of the previous years. The speed of the game demands mental agility. The body contacts and constant training improves one physically. Gentlemanly conduct promotes high morals; all these are essential to the sport.

Do you remember that wonderful feeling after the gang took the opener from Richmond, 7-6? . . . Hawks couldn't get started and took the next one on the chin at Jeff . . . Boys annex second win of season with victory over county rival, Kirklin . . . Logansport scored too many touchdowns as they overran the Nighthawks . . . Repeat performance—Tech was too much for us, although the game was much closer than score indicated . . . Friday thirteenth—Kokomo pulled away as Hawks lost fifth N.C.C. contest . . . Mooseheart, the Notre Dame of high school football, had a good night—nuf sed . . . Nighthawks racked West Side and Marion games up in the wrong column as season closed . . . Results: two victories, seven defeats. The characteristic spirit of the Nighthawks continued into the last minutes of the season, as the seniors played their last game gloriously even in defeat.

Freshman Football

This year's freshmen team enjoyed a very successful season. Although their schedule was limited they proved themselves very capable of handling their opponents. Their season record included victories over Kirklin, Lebanon, and Jeff of Lafayette. Much is expected from these gridders in the future.

Eighth Grade Football

In their first year as high school gridders the eighth grade footballers compiled a very impressive record. Their victories included a win over Jeff of Lafayette and Kirklin, and in a return game the eighth graders dropped a one-point decision to Kirklin.

Frankfort Fighting Five

Around the early part of November a sudden frenzy to push a leather sphere through a hoop suspended ten feet from the floor on a bankboard sweeps through the state. For five action-packed months, basketball, with its long shots, pivot shots, tip-ins, foul shots, rebounds, fancy dribbling, skillful passing, speed, aggressiveness, and cheers and jeers, holds the spotlight. This year's Hot Dog quintet rolled up a creditable record of 16 victories and six defeats. This, along with its fighting spirit, provided Frankfort followers with plenty to cheer about.

Varsity Squad

Coached by the N.C.C. Coach of the Year, Wilbur Cummins, the determined and spirited Hot Dog Fighting Five captured a tie for fourth and fifth place in the North Central Conference.

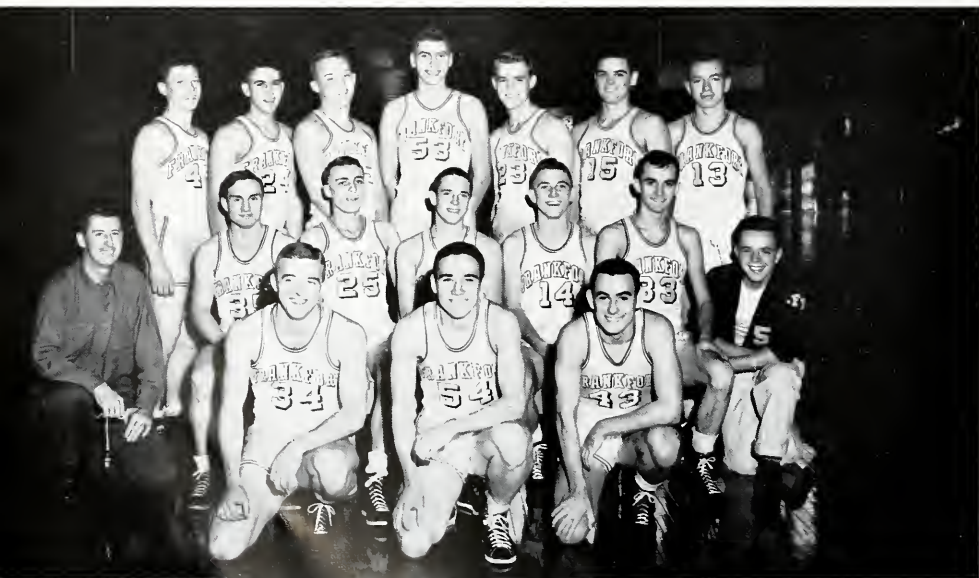

Eddie Ruch, Joe Pickard, Dave Thompson, and Bob Sheets, along with the N.C.C. all-star forward, Bill Sullivan, proved to be capable of knocking off anyone. Although three seniors will graduate from the 1950-1951 first five, the courtmen will be N.C.C. title contenders next season, with several returning varsity lettermen and a host of talent from this year's reserve squad.

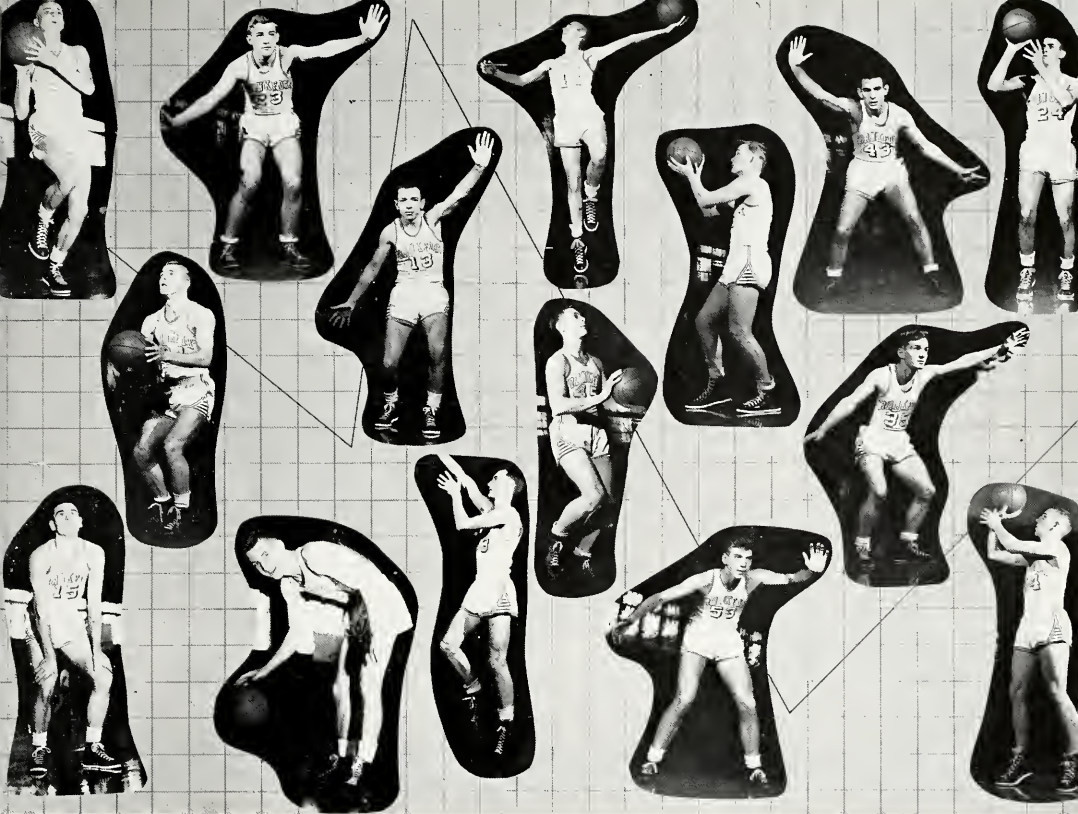

Again this year the Hot Dogs employed the zone defense to an advantage, although an occasional venture into a pressure defense proved successful. Besides a good defense, the Hot Dogs possessed a better-than-average offense. While using the fast break and a ball-control type of offense, the Fighting Five placed Bill Sullivan and Dave Thompson first and second, respectively, in the North Central Conference scoring race.

As tournament time rolled around, the Hot Dogs had gained enough prestige to be ranked seventh in the state and to be picked by several sportswriters to go all the way. Everything was perfect except that an old nemesis had been overlooked—Rossville. The Fighting Five was bumped off in the sectional finals. Although failing to win the state, the Hot Dogs did not fail to continue that old Frankfort tradition of fight and courage.

Track is one of the most popular sports in the field of athletics today because all of man's natural actions, running, jumping, and throwing, are used in the variety of activities.

After all the excitement of basketball was over for F.H.S., and the first signs of spring weather rolled around, Coach Dick began organizing the 1951 edition of the Blue Blazes.

Following the appearance of the first robin, the Blue Blazes were found preparing themselves for the oncoming season. Whenever the weather was disagreeable, the squad worked out under the protective roof of Howard Hall. Otherwise they sought the more spacious confines of either Case or Stott Field in which to work out the kinks. Highlights of the year were the Howe Relays held in the Indiana University Fieldhouse on March 24. Their meets were the Frankfort Relays, the Attica Relays, the Central Indiana, and the largest meet of all, the N.C.C. meet. This was the first time this large spectacle was ever held at Stott Field. For the first time dual meets were held with Shortridge of Indianapolis and Attica. As usual, Jeff of Lafayette was terminated with the sectional at Jeff, the regional was in Mishawaka, and the state meet was held in Indianapolis.

Cross Country

Bill Sullivan, Donald Reagle, Jim McIntosh, Gene Emery, Neil Conner, Norman Newhart, Dick Pollett, Joe ArmantROUT, Meredith Wainscott, Dorwin Dick.

Baseball

As spring rolls around the magic world of baseball once again fills the air. Baseball has come down through the years as one of America's most popular sports.

This year, as in many years past, Coach Cummins put our team, the Blue Sox, through their first drills inside Howard Hall. As the weather cleared the boys moved to the T.P.A. Park diamond, where they put in many strenuous hours of practice. However, these practice hours paid off as they moved through the schedule meeting stiff competition from nine other North Central Conference teams, plus Lebanon and Crawfordsville. This year the schedule contained six home tilts with five being played away.

Tennis

Warm weather always renews interest in tennis. This sport has grown in popularity throughout the high school and community during the past few years. All schools in the North Central Conference now have varsity teams, and this year Mr. Rohrbaugh scheduled eleven meets for the teams.

Golf

Golf is a comparatively new sport in this high school. The team met all of the other schools in the North Central Conference this year before closing the season by being host to the Big Ten meet. After three years of competition the boys receive their sweaters.

ROW I — Bill Bratton, Jim Clark, Bill Clark, Roger Robison, Pete Dupler, Tom Thompson, Larry Shaver, Jan Downer, Buck Rohrbaugh.

Yell Leaders

It's a fact that wherever the Nighthawks and the Hot Dogs were, these figures were also near, urging the team on whether in victory or defeat. They are, from left to right: Donna Pulley, Sue Overman, Bill Wainscott, Beverly Winger, and Shirley Michaels.

Girls' Physical Education

With a growing need for physical as well as mental ability, girls have become more interested in sports, games, dancing, gymnastics, and many other forms of activities offered in the Physical Education classes.

The classes are under the able supervision of Miss Louise LeHew and Miss Sally Foster.

We can truthfully say that Physical Education has done much to build up the mind and body of each girl.

Basketball, volleyball, soccer, baseball, and ring tennis are all included in the girls' daily schedule.

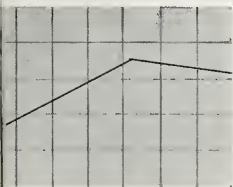

The girls dreaded the coming of winter and looked forward to the return of spring, when they could journey to Case Field. Here the girls enjoyed outdoor activities under the sun. Physical Education did not end with the ringing of the four o'clock bell. Many girls enjoyed themselves playing basketball tournaments which were held after school twice weekly throughout the year.

FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT ADMINISTRATION AND STUDENTS

Instruction . . . Friendship . . . Inspiration
 . . . Counseling . . . Assistance
 . . . Understanding . . . Leadership . . .
 Encouragement.

Mr. Sam M. Woodruff, superintendent of schools, enthusiastically recognizes our needs and does his best to keep the system functioning smoothly and progressively. The friendliness and sincerity of purpose displayed by our superintendent and school board permits student improvement culturally, physically and socially.

School board . . . Robert Ryan, treasurer . . .
 Russell Kelley, president . . . Claude Maxson, secretary . . . Sam Woodruff, superintendent.

Mr. Howard L. Crouse has completed two years as leader of our school. He freely gives his time and energy to students of both junior and senior high. He directs our school with fore-thought and judgment keeping in mind the future needs of the students. The tone of our high school is displayed by the fine leadership of our principal.

Here are some well-known people of F.H.S. . . . Oma Heaton, Dean of Girls; Raymond Rohrabach, Dean of Boys; Wayne Gregg, Assistant Principal; and Dale Shanks, Truant Officer. Every pupil comes into contact with these persons several times in his high school career. They enthusiastically help and advise problem-laden students.

Our Social Studies Department includes Social Science, World History, and U. S. History classes. These classes are often the scenes of rousing discussions on current events. As we read, the events which come before us help us to comprehend what is happening today. These instructors are Wayne Gregg, Harold Barnett, Robert Bahney, Edith Hinman, Dorwin Dick, and Raymond Rohrbach.

Teachers who are pictured here, Hilda Kearns, Larry Farrell, Martha Redmon, Gordon Wise, and Edna Miller, teach a variety of subjects . . . English, journalism, Latin, and dramatics . . . all included in the English Department. The students gain a sense of responsibility in meeting deadlines . . . whether in journalism or dramatics . . . while Latin teaches the fundamentals of many of our present day languages.

Home Economics and Industrial courses prepare students for future homemaking and skilled labor. The students and instructors of these courses have been an aid to the social functions and extra-curricular activities of our school. The teachers of these departments are Betty Shake, Wayne Shockney, Kathryn Mosier, B. R. Blunk, Melba Padgett, James Welty, Charles Winters, and James Davis.

These teachers of the English and Foreign Language Departments stress such things as the fundamentals of grammar, reading, and memorization which are so vital in a student's high school education.

Through Spanish we learn the language and customs of our southern neighbors . . . and from speech classes we acquire ease while speaking before the public. Those responsible for this instruction are Coy Wood, Ona Heaton, Lorene Orr, James McMurtrey, and Hattie Campbell.

Math classes teach us to use our minds logically . . . not only as we ponder theorems and square roots, but in everyday life. All types of math from General Math to Plane Trigonometry are included in F. H. S.'s Mathematic Department. In this group are Della M. Sanders, Howard Pace, Mary May, James Baldwin, and Doris Knox.

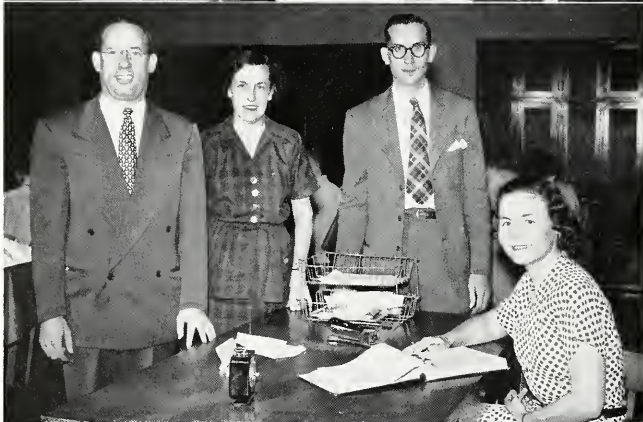

Students acquire their physical growth from athletics and planned gym courses. . . They also benefit from the fundamentals of health and safety which are taught by Walter Ford, Louise LeHew, Wilbur Cummins, and Sally Foster.

The instructors of the music and art departments are Aden Long, band; Ann Cooper, chorus and eighth grade art; Harriett Gallup, art; and Bertrand Langdon, orchestra. They were responsible for the many musical convocations and art exhibits this year.

Frankfort High School is lucky to offer their students a complete business training course which prepares students for future jobs. The instructors of these classes are Leo Dean, Evelyn Pond, Ernest Alexander, and Frances Frantz, substituting the first semester for Irene Carfield.

F. H. S. can boast one of Indiana's top rate high school science departments. The principle purpose of this department is to prepare students who plan to take professional training in the fields of medicine, dentistry, engineering, nursing, and other fields of science. The teachers responsible for this preparatory training are Carl Belcher, Paul Lowe, Paul Van Swearingen, Ernest O. Hanger, and Marie Van Horn.

Senior Class

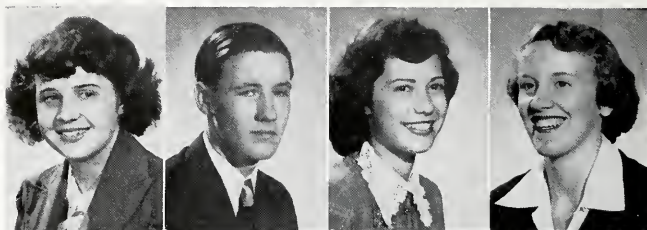

SENIOR is a word like a signal—the signal of a bell closing our high school career. One hundred twenty-five students proudly wear this lofty title. As ambitious underclassmen we walked through much dreary confusion; but the zenith, our senior year with all its glory has come at last. Five years have passed, each providing social development as well as scholastic growth. We have become a part of F.H.S. and it a part of us.

Making our Junior Prom—"Evening in Paris"—a great success, the sensation of witnessing the first homecoming, that unique visit to "Ye Olde Bavarian Cafe"—Hi-Y Dance, the thrill when our basketball team left the floor victorious, trying our luck at show business in the Big Broadcast, and the Senior Class Play—these experiences have bound together the class of 1951.

President of the '51 class supplies the facts . . . other leaders supply the figures . . . Phil Chittick, president; Nancy Camp, vice-president; Judy Clinigan, treasurer; Joan Zink, secretary.

Those who led the class of '52 through an outstanding Junior year are, left to right: Jerry Davey, president; Donna Barnett, secretary; Nancy Blystone, vice-president; and Joyce Grafton, treasurer. These officers made their class tops by the hard work they did. The juniors followed through with facts and figures to be proud of.

Grey and green class sweaters started the Junior class out for a good showing. They not only began in a grand way, but continued their good work throughout the year. These Juniors excelled in service . . . leadership . . . scholarship . . . sports . . . and extra-curricular activities. They have always been an enterprising class with the idea in mind . . . go to it and make it the best . . . they carried this idea out with flying colors when they ended the Junior year with the truly . . . "Out of This World" Prom of 1951.

"Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thought." The pulsating chords of "Pomp and Circumstance" on graduation day are perhaps to a senior a sweet song, but also a tragic one. On this memorable day each senior feels the pride of graduation conflict with the sorrow of leaving F.H.S., as a student, forever.
